CEBIC TECHNOLOGIES INC. NOW OFFERING HIGH QUALITY COMPUTER SYSTEMS *IT Management Company Rivals Big Manufacturers with Configurable and 'Clean' Systems

Denver, Colo., August 31, 2004 - Cebic Technologies, Inc., a leading provider of affordable, real-time information technology management for entrepreneurial businesses, announced today it will begin selling custom computer systems, in addition to the remote intelligent security service it currently offers. Using the Cebic Web site, customers can now build and configure their own computer systems that come equipped with only the software applications the user needs or requests.

“Major computer manufacturers often bog systems down with unnecessary software that can lead to security problems and drain valuable hard-drive space,” said Beate Hybinette, CEO, Cebic Technologies. “We were consistently being asked by our customers where they can buy a high quality system without all the excess software. Our customers can expect their new Cebic systems to be built with the highest quality, name brand components in an ISO 9001:2000-certified process environment designed for Windows® certifications. The new systems will ship with 100 percent less pre-installed software. You decide what you like installed.”

The Cebic systems are customizable with a one or three-year warranty and 24-hour technical support. The computers can also come equipped with Cebic's Remote Intelligence® security system which enables Cebic to remotely watch for viruses, security breaches, computer system overload and other problems on customer networks.

Currently the company is offering servers, desktop and laptop computers. Although built to the highest standards and personally for each user, the systems are reasonably priced and frequently cost less than competitors.
